HKETO Director presents Best Asia Pacific Business Award at 2024 ACCE Awards Gala

Director of the HKETO, Ms Emily Mo, graced the 2024 Association of Chinese Canadian Entrepreneurs (ACCE) Awards Gala on April 20, where she presented the Best Asia Pacific Business Award (the Award).

In her address at the gala, Ms. Mo underscored Hong Kong’s enduring status as an optimal place for Canadian enterprises seeking to expand their operations into the Asian and mainland Chinese markets. She highlighted the city’s unique edges under the “one country, two systems”, and its advantageous position being part of the Guangdong-Hong Kong-Macao Greater Bay Area (GBA).

Ms Mo also elaborated on Hong Kong’s proactive initiatives in fostering innovation and development across various sectors such as innovative technology, green finance, arts and culture, and more.

Apr 24, 2024

Ms Mo shared that Hong Kong, as Asia's Events Capital, will host nearly 150 events this year, spanning international financial summits, world-class art exhibitions, and mega sports events, to attract global audiences.

The Award sponsored by HKETO is to recognise entrepreneurs who have made successful business expansion to the Asia Pacific region using Hong Kong as a platform. The 2024 Award was bestowed upon Ms Jess Mok, Founder and Director of Decomomo. Originated from Hong Kong, Ms Mok founded the household storage product company in Canada in 2016 and is exploring opportunities to enhance its international presence in markets including the United States, Europe and Asia.

HKETO Director promotes Hong Kong's strengths in medical and healthcare development

Director of the HKETO, Ms Emily Mo, briefed Canadian medical industry professionals on Hong Kong's strengths in healthcare infrastructure at a virtual meeting co-organised by the HKTDC and the HKCBA (Ottawa Section) on April 18.

In her opening remarks, Ms Mo introduced Hong Kong's efforts to transform the city into a hub of health and medical innovation, in which some Canadian research institutes and companies have already engaged in collaborative endeavors in research and development (R&D) in Hong Kong.

On a local front, Ms Mo noted that the Hospital Authority (HA) of Hong Kong has implemented a unified clinical management computer system, which helped facilitate clinical trial networks and big data research. The HA's plan to open the Cluster Clinical Research Support Office also underscored the city's dedication to streamlining and enhancing the clinical trial process.

Also speaking at the briefing was Dr Gladys Kwan, HA's Chief Manager of the Medical Grade. She introduced the HA's efforts in recruiting talents worldwide to join the medical work in Hong Kong.

At the meeting, the host also announced that a Canadian delegation with health professionals will visit Hong Kong and join the Asia Summit on Global Health and the Hong Kong International Medical and Healthcare Fair in May.

HKETO promotes business and professional opportunities arising from Hong Kong's infrastructure development to Canada

The HKETO and the Hong Kong Institution of Engineers (HKIE) co-organised joint student seminars in Toronto and Vancouver on April 8 and 10 respectively to promote the tremendous career prospects for engineers in Hong Kong.

Titled “Engineering Prospects and Opportunities in Hong Kong”, the seminars aimed to provide information and insights to engineering students and recent graduates of the University of Toronto and the University of British Columbia on the promising future for the engineering profession in Hong Kong and the GBA.

At the seminar at the University of Toronto, the Director of HKETO, Ms Emily Mo, shared the latest developments of Hong Kong, particularly on the various infrastructure and capital projects, such as the Northern Metropolis Development, the Three-Runway System and various projects under the “Airport City” vision.

Ms Mo also briefed the attendees on the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region (HKSAR) Government’s efforts to create a vibrant ecosystem for the industry, academia and the research sector with excellent software and hardware support, to develop Hong Kong as an international innovation and technology centre. These include the supporting measures for nurturing and attraction of innovation and technology talents.

HKIE’s Immediate Past President, Ir Aaron Bok, presented the current and planned development projects, engineering career opportunities in Hong Kong as well as HKIE’s support for members.

HKETO also supported other events by the HKIE delegation during its visit to Canada between April 7 and April 13, including receptions for practicing Professional Engineers in Canada and a meeting with the Professional Engineering Ontario.

HONG KONG NEWS

HKIA Crowned World’s Busiest Cargo Airport

Hong Kong International Airport (HKIA) has been named once again the world’s busiest cargo airport for 2023 in terms of total volume, according to the latest data released by Airports Council International on April 15. The airport handled 4.3 million tonnes of cargo during the year. It is the 13th time since 2010 that HKIA is named the busiest cargo airport in the world.

Airport Authority Hong Kong said that this accomplishment demonstrates HKIA’s resilience, unparalleled efficiency and world-class cargo services. Air cargo is a key driver of the growth of Hong Kong’s logistics industry and overall economic development.

Apr 24, 2024

In addition, to enhance connectivity with the GBA, HKIA has launched a novel cargo sea-air transshipment operation which enables security screening, palletisation, cargo acceptance and other services to be completed upstream at the HKIA Dongguan Logistics Park before the cargo is shipped to HKIA by sea for air transshipment to worldwide destinations. Conversely, a similar process is in place for international imports to the Mainland.
